

Bruce Shillingsworth Snr, a Murawari man, is one of 11 children in a creative and artistic family. His mother is '91 years young'. After collecting indigenous stories for over 50 years, Bruce recently began to paint on canvas. His diverse career and vocation involve educating young people for Barnardo's, Scouts Australia and NSW Education about our history and responsibility to be involved with living sensibly and sustainably. His vision is that black and white Australians will walk together and see our collective national identities and concerns.

Click the link below to see Bruce Shillingsworth talking about Aboriginal history and the Darling River near his home town of Brewarrina:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MaCNHuJztwE>